number of stages. One of the initial steps is the birth of the idea. An artist may be inspired by the need to express himself artistically – to create a unique masterpiece, or by the necessity of the same time. The visualization of such idea is the design that is a mere vision of the artist, and that, in time, becomes a material item. If that final product complies with the requirements approved by the experts, actual or even potential clients, has been given positive opinions on the market, exhibits and presentations, can it be decided whether or not to produce for consumer. to be too controversial, too modern or too bold.
